Gloor is a Dutch name. The name means luster or shine. Our ancestors migrated from Holland to Switzerland. The Gloor's in Switzerland were quite wealthy at one time, but later lost their wealth as Aunt Anna or Gertrude put it "thru a Jew". From the loss of money the family seems to have seperated. One stayed in Switzerland, one became sea merchant and married a French woman. One went to Australia and one Franz to United States and possably Melanie Gretner's mother.

Grandpa Gloor (Frank) was unable to work. Herman went to work as a young man to help support the family. In the summer of 1947 we went to visit the family home on Vine st. Philadelphia. Herman quit his job as a boiler room engineer and came out to Calif. to live with us. He died about two years after my father died in 1949 in thw garage of our house in Aromas. Herman died of an enlarged heart. He is buried. in family plot in Philadelphia.

When I was about five Uncle Herman and Grandma Gloor (Augusta) came out to Calif. tostay and my father to help with her medical care. She was bedfast due to a stroke and Herman took care of her with my mothers help until she died. Herman took her body back to be buried inthe same grave as Frank. This was about 1937.

Byron Lord and Eugene Gloor were roommates at Loma Linda University and that is how Eugene met Elsie.. Byron came down with tuberculosis, and finished his medical degree at the University of Colorado in Denver. He then practiced medicine in Denver. He had one daughter--Muriel Lord-Edge Currier-Loeppke, Bernal Currier and Violet Currier. Joseph was a cabinet maker. When Violet was 10 days old Edna suffered a cerebral hemorrhage which left her left arm paralyzed. Some time later Joseph left her saying he did not want a cripple for a wife. Edna was a R.N. but because of her arm she could not work in a hospital. She took in elderly in her home for care and she raised her four children doing that.

Grandma King

Great grandpa and Great Grandma King came from Boston England. Great Grandpa King's father was church vicar in Boston for many years. There were four boys in the vicars family and they led the good live. Great Grandpa King was a British Bobby and he liked his liquor. He lost his job because he was drunk at work. Great Grandma King went to his boss got his job back providing that he stay sober and he did for a long time. But it happened again and this time Great Grandma King packed her things and the two girls and came to Providence Rhode Island. He followed he here and worked as a night watchman. He died of alcoholism. One of the girls was my Grandma Lord-Eggars.

Grandpa Lord was a orphan and not much is known of him. He died of stomach cancer and is buried in Rhode Island.

Grandma King-Lord-Eggars died of athrosclosis. Got up in the morning when she reached up to turn on the light it ruptued her coratid artery and she was found dead. Graandma Lord-Eggars, Grandpa Eggars, Great Grandma King Aunt Alice Appleby and some of her relatives are all buried in the Vahalla cemetry near the Burbank airport.
